

Break Out of Past Urges Father Banet

The largest student body in the history of Saint Joseph's College was pointedly challenged to "think your faith" and face the complexities of today's world with courage, direct involvement and love in Alumni Fieldhouse at the annual mass marking the official start of the 1966-67 school year.

Father Charles H. Banet, C.P.P.S., beginning his second academic year as President of Saint Joseph's, addressed his remarks to approximately 1300 students and members of the faculty and staff.

Father Banet presented the twin challenges in a context of what he termed "two-seemingly opposing centers of interest which contend for our complete attention." He cited an intense interest in religious renewal on one hand, the "God is dead" concept on the other, as the two opposing centers of interest.

He called the religious renewal movement "a phenomenon unknown since the days of the Reformation, when wars were fought over dogmas." Students in state school are now eagerly discussing and clarifying issues involving basic religious concepts such as justice and human rights, he noted. A marked increase in interest in religious books and in study of Papal encyclicals and decrees of the Vatican Council is also evident, Father pointed out.

The other center of interest rallies itself around the "God is dead" banner, Father continued. "It befriends any and all who prefer a Christianity without religion, and a code of conduct with morality. It too has penetrated quickly and deeply into the educational life of America," he warned.

He cautioned that Saint Joseph's, "as a vital unit in the academic life of our country," faces these antithetic views and cannot afford to ignore them as if they were not of meaning and importance. "By the mere fact that we unite here in an atmosphere of religion, and at a eucharistic ceremony, we automatically have committed ourselves," he reasoned.

In presenting the challenges to think your faith and confront today's world, Father Banet called them "two wholesome reflections" suggested by the Protestant scripture scholar, Rudolph Bultmann, who began the contemporary compulsion to "demythologize the Bible." His purpose is to express the message of sacred scripture in a modern, scientific context, so that today's Christian will think his faith and "not just hold it in a vacuum but relate it to his intimate life."

In presenting his second major challenge, Father Banet encouraged the students to "Break out of the protective crusts of the past. Confront today's world head-on, with unsquinting eyes and a heart hungry to accept its wonders and its mystery. It is a dynamic, challenging world, despite all its contagions, fevers, delusions, neu-

Campus Changes Feature New Dorm

Plans for a new dormitory and the largest enrollment in history headline the scene as Saint Joseph's College, now in its 77th year, approaches the 1966-67 school year.

"I plan to motivate Saint Joseph's in a direction of continued growth and academic excellence," College President Father Charles H. Banet, C.P.P.S., responded during a student newspaper interview last September. The new dormitory and record enrollment are two of many signs that Father Banet's plans are becoming quite real as he begins his second school year.

As was the case last year, an all-time enrollment record of 1359 sets the second such enrollment peak at Saint Joseph's. In June, 303 students participated in the six-week summer session to raise by 13 the 1965 summer record enrollment of 290. That total had broken the 1964 record summer enrollment of 215.

Saint Joseph's has been growing at the rate of approximately 50 students per year for the past five years. While this indicates definite progress, the expansion has also brought a problem: housing for a bulging student body.

This fall about 150 students are being housed in Rensselaer apartments, since campus facilities are filled to capacity. Alleviation of this problem is now in view as the college's biggest construction project since the Charles Halleck Student Union Center and Schwietermann Hall faculty home is taking shape in plans for what will be the largest dormitory on campus.

Final specifications are near completion and groundbreaking is planned for sometime in November. It is hoped that the dormitory will be ready for occupancy by September of 1967.

It will consist of two residence wings, centered by a one-story lounge and main entrance. The three-story wings will house approximately 250 students, making the dorm about twice the size of any current residence hall.

Several of the hall's specifications, such as air-conditioning, overhead lighting and single beds (in contrast to bunk beds) have been adopted after studying results of a survey taken last winter that tested student preferences on room and residence hall conditions.

Father Banet cites the new dormitory plans as concrete evidence that Saint Joseph's is striving to better fulfill its commitment to the American educational system by accepting more students in an era of bulging college enrollments.

Two major office renovations have taken place in the Administration Building, where the Business Office has been relocated at the north end of the main corridor in what was formerly a faculty lounge. Work on an office suite with a conference room for the college president is nearing completion in that area vacated when the Business Office was relocated. The president's office is currently located in the college library.

Campuses Will Separate

Separation of the Calumet Campus and the Rensselaer Campus of Saint Joseph's College into two distinct and independent colleges, "surely by August, 1970," has been recommended by the college's board of control.

The Very Rev. Charles H. Banet, C.P.P.S., president of Saint Joseph's College, made the announcement at opening sessions of the college year at the Calumet Campus.

Speaking to 500 freshman students, faculty members and undergraduates, Father Banet said that as soon as feasible it is the intention of the college to create two separately governed institutions, totally and completely independent with the Calumet Campus seeking its own national and regional accreditation.

"Every effort shall be made to develop an institution with an individual purpose for existence," Father Banet asserted.

He said the two colleges should have a different statement of aims and purposes so that when the time for separation is reached two really distinct institutions will exist.

"Instead of emphasizing likenesses, then, it may well be appropriate to indicate differences," Father Banet explained.

Psychology Students Receive Distinguished Service Award

Dr. James Kenny, Chairman of the Psychology Department, has announced that the Norman M. Beatty Memorial Hospital at Westville, Ind. has presented its Distinguished Service Award for 1965-66 to the psychology students of Saint Joseph's College. The award, authorized by the State Commissioner of Mental Health, Mr. Stuart Ginsberg, was given in appreciation of the work done by the students in Psychology 40.1.

The eight members of this class traveled to Westville every week where they spent two hours assisting the staff in the care of mental patients. They ate dinner with their patients and spent some of their own time on projects and cases which especially interested them.

The staff of the hospital was very pleased with the entire program, Kenny said, especially because it helped eliminate institutionalitis—a loss of contact with the outside world which affects the cure of patients who have spent long periods of time in the hospital.

Bro. Philip Marks 25th

Brother Philip R. Buhrman, C.P.P.S., of Saint Joseph's College, celebrated his 25th anniversary of his religious profession in the Society of the Precious Blood on July 1, 1966. A Eucharistic Gathering, followed by a dinner and a reception was held for him on June 12th at Saint Joseph's.

Father Charles J. Robbins, C.P.P.S., religious superior of the C.P.P.S. Community at Saint Joseph's, was the principal concelebrant and speaker at the Eucharistic Gathering.

He entered the Society of the Precious Blood on Sept. 7, 1939, at Saint Joseph's College and made his religious profession on July 1, 1941 at St. Charles Seminary, Carthagen, Ohio. Brother received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English-Journalism from Saint Joseph's in August of 1966, and is working toward his B.A. in Theology, which he expects to receive in August of 1967.

The first step in Saint Joseph's $40,000 auditorium improvement project opened recently as carpenters and electricians completed the installation of a new Tellers Organ adjacent to the stage. The organ was dedicated and the first recital given on July 17th. Above are the organ recital participants and their families. Left to right: Mrs. Arthur McCaw, Miss McCaw, Mr. Lynn McCaw, '66; Brother Alphonsus Thomas, C.F.P.; Mr. Arthur McCaw; Father Lawrence Heiman, C.P.P.S.; Mr. John Helbach, Sister Mary Josephus Helbach, O.S.F.; and Sister Josephus' mother, Mrs. Helbach, Mr. John Helbach initiated the Sister Josephus organ fund that made the new installation possible. Gifts came from students, faculty, alumni and friends.

Alumni Outline Plans

Recent accomplishments and future plans were outlined this summer as Saint Joseph's Alumni Board of Directors held its annual summer session for those alumni who hold key positions within the growing organization.

Welcoming the approximate 25 alumni to the morning session was Father John M. Lefko, C.P.P.S., Saint Joseph's Director of Development. Guest speaker was Jim Garber, Director of Public Relations at Manchester College in North Manchester, Ind.

"Thanks to the fine leadership of people like you, alumni affairs conducted during 1965-66 have been extremely successful," Father Lefko said. "With a little more than 2,500 alumni assisting during this past year, Saint Joseph's received more than $100,000 in donations. Certainly this is a praiseworthy achievement and reflects on an ever-growing body of active, interested and loyal alumni," he added.

Father Lefko cited many examples of college progress during 1965-66, including plans for a new dormitory to be constructed southwest of Halas Hall and the $40,000 auditorium remodeling project which was begun this summer. He also pointed out these projects "indicating the rapid pace at which Saint Joseph's is growing:" 1. The work now being done on the college carpentry shop where the new computer is now housed and where the alumni and placement offices will eventually be located; 2. Conversion of the Gaspar Hall basement into an accounting laboratory (the book store was located here before its relocation in Halleck Center).

Three Alumni Execs With Merrill Lynch

"When an alumnus achieves a given degree of success, the joy is indeed his. But a share in this joy also belongs to the college or university he attended, for his success reflects well—often very well—on that institution."

Thus spoke Russell F. Carpenter, Secretary of Smith College (Northampton, Mass.), during last summer's national convention of the American Alumni Council, held July 10-14 at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Today Saint Joseph's College is happy to share in the joy of 1942 class member Thomas J. Cassady, who was recently named to the Board of Directors of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., one of the United States' largest brokerage firms.

Cassady is the first Saint Joe alumnus to be accorded this honor, although he is just one of three Collegeville alumni who are stockholders in the firm. The others are James R. Bogan, a member of Saint Joseph's Board of Lay Trustees, and James Shields, a member of the Alumni Board of Directors. The latter is the brother of Father William D. Shields, C.P.P.S., currently Dean of Students at Collegeville.

Cassady began his career with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith in 1945, when he worked for several years as a commodity account executive in the firm's Washington, D.C., office. He was transferred to New York commodity headquarters in 1949 and the following year moved to the New York City sales office as an account executive.

He was made a Merrill Lynch stockholder in 1960, then named manager of the firm's Fort Wayne, Ind., office in 1962.

Early in 1964, Cassady returned to New York to work in the Sales Planning Department of headquarters there, and in October of that year, he was appointed Director of the Commodity Division he now holds.

Cassady now lives in Manhasset, Long Island, N.Y., a picturesque residential community 17 miles east of New York City.

Saint Joseph's alumni interested in having a mass said for their special intentions are reminded that there are approximately 40-50 masses per day offered on the Collegeville campus.

At least three of the daily masses are scheduled and held in the college chapel. The other services are held in the priest's oratory above the priest's dining room.

Interested alumni are invited to contact any of the Fathers at Saint Joseph's.

Laymen Join Board of Trustees

Privately-supported colleges across the United States are becoming increasingly aware that the years ahead are likely to be difficult and stormy. Catholic colleges, in particular, are coming to realize they must strengthen their legal organizations and enlist the interest and support of dedicated laymen to overcome oncoming difficulties.

Saint Joseph's College is acutely aware of looming problems facing private colleges in the second half of the 20th century, and part of this awareness was reflected June 16 when five laymen combining a vast range of experience, talent and foresight were added to the college Board of Trustees. It marked the first time in history that anyone except a member of the Society of the Precious Blood has been a member of the Board.

"This is a growing trend among private church-supported schools," says Father Charles H. Banet, C.P.P.S., President of Saint Joseph's. "We believe it is a wise thing to draw upon the varied talents and experience of these laymen who have earned the respect of their colleagues. With backgrounds of experience in law, finance

Alumnus Pastor Featured For Work With Migrant Workers

A 6'5" former Saint Joseph's College varsity basketball player, and now pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Bono, Ohio, was the featured personality in a DAYTON TELEGRAPH story concerning Migrant Workers in Ohio.

Father Ottenweller, '36, is head of the policy-advisory committee of the new Ohio Migrant Reception Center in Henry County, and Chairman of the employment and transportation division of the Governor's Committee on Migrant Labor.

William Walker, executive secretary of the Governor's Committee, praises Father Ottenweller as the "man who has done more than any one individual for thousands of migrant workers and their families . . . He knows more migrants by their first names than any one person in the State of Ohio."

Father Ottenweller is a key figure in the Catholic Church effort to aid the migrant in the Toledo diocese. In northwestern Ohio, the Church operates programs in behalf of migrant families in five centers, involving 20 full time workers and 600 volunteers.

Father Banet stresses that "these men are not mere advisors to the Board of Control. They execute an absolute share in the governance of Saint Joseph's, bringing a wide spread of experience and fresh arena of thought and interest to the Board.

"We are grateful indeed for the conscientious, willing manner in which they have already applied themselves to activities of the Board of Trustees. They ask pointed, direct questions and demand concrete, convincing answers in matters pertinent to the welfare of Saint Joseph's College. For this we owe a deep debt of gratitude to men who, saddled with other immense responsibilities, give freely of their time and guidance to this school."

Kaiser and Kelly Publish Books

Father Edwin J. Kaiser, C.P.P.S., Professor of Theology at Saint Joseph's College, is the author of THEOLOGY OF WORK, the latest of his many publications, which has been published by the Newman Press.

In his book, Father Kaiser examines the broad outlines of a Catholic theology which deals with the activity of man called work. The author deals with both manual and intellectual labor in the light of man's position in the universe.

Paul E. Kelly, professor of marketing at Saint Joseph's College, has written a standard textbook for the beginning course in marketing that was published in May by Brown & Co. of New York.

The text involves a study of basic marketing theories; an analysis of the operation of our free market economy within the framework of our laws, institutions and distributive facilities.

Salary Increase Announced

Saint Joseph's College has announced a wage increase for staff employees which became effective Sept. 9 and raises the overall campus salary scale by $32,000.

Staff employees were informed of the wage hike in a recent letter from Father Paul E. Wellman, C.P.P.S., Business Manager of Saint Joseph's. "We are very happy and proud to grant this increase in wages," Father Wellman wrote. "In granting the raises we have tried to consider loyalty, length of service, ability and effort. And, as far as was possible at this time, we have tried to standardize pay for similar types of work."

Similar pay raises in the past two years brings the total increase to more than $95,000—a 27 per cent jump in college employee wages during the three years including the disability insurance program which was presented the employees as a Christmas gift in December, 1964. The college pays the entire premium of this insurance program.

Student Council Names Concert Series Performers

A high-classed combination of pop and folk music, plus the big-band sound, is on tap in Saint Joseph's 1966-67 Student Council Concert Series, according to Mike Lunkes, a senior finance major who is Student Council President.

The New Christy Minstrels and the Bitter End Singers head the folk music groups scheduled to visit Collegeville this school year. Their appearances represent a continuation of the strong folk music emphasis apparent in last year's Student Council Concert Series.

A combination of pop and folk music will be presented later in the year by Glenn Yarbrogh.

For those with the big band tastes, Si Zentner and his orchestra will visit Saint Joseph's, bringing with him a top-notch popularity rating. The Ramsey Lewis Trio headlines the jass groups scheduled to appear.

Another well-regarded group coming here is the "In Crowd," an aggregation styled along the lines of the Four Seasons.

Lunkes points out that the Student Council has doubled its Concert Series investment over last year and the 1966-67 investment is five times as great as in 1964-65.

roses, frustrations and many hollow happinesses. Open up to it without reserve."

"But start now," he warned. "Saint Joseph's College wants to offer you abundant opportunity to participate in the religious, cultural, social and political currents of your times." With a sincere application of wisdom and charity, the students were encouraged to involve themselves in the struggle of civil rights, to sit down at ecumenical dialogues and to prepare thoughtfully for careers of service in organizations such as the Peace Corps and Papal Volunteers.

"By its very nature, Saint Joseph's College must hurl back in their faces the allegations of those who would bury church-related colleges in medieval tombs," Father Banet concluded. "We are vital to our era, more vital than perhaps even we realize."
